Smethport Loses Another.

The game of base ball between Kane and Smethport at Kane last Saturday was a repetition of the game here last Thursday, with some exceptions, Kane winning by score of 11 to 12. It was an exciting game and was all Smethport's way until the eighth inning when two errors and five hits scored Kane 5 runs. Fuller pitched a good steady game. The umpiring was rank and can properly be called a farce.

There will be a game here to-morrow (Saturday) between Smethport and Roulette, and as the latter team is a good one a close game may be expected.

Summer School

As there is to be no summer school at Clarion this summer, Sup't W. P. Eckels will, at the request of a number of teachers, organize a Summer Teachers' Class in the Smethport school building on Monday, June 8th, to continue four weeks.

Special attention will be paid to the common school branches.

Persons expecting to teach during the coming year will find it very helpful to join this class.

Tuition four dollars.

Board may be obtained at reasonable rates For further particulars call on or address

Grand Army Doings.

The annual convention and encampment of all the Grand Army Posts of the State will be held at Chambersburg during the week beginning Tuesday, June 2, when a State Department Commander will be elected. There are 602 G A. R. Posts in the State that will be represented. There are two prominent candidates for the position, Judge Alfred Darte, of Wilkesbarre, and Col. James B. Dennworthy, of Williamsport.

The Unkindest Cut of All

The Mt Jewett correspondent of the Kane Republican thus jabs the knife under the fifth rib of our base ball management and gives it an extra twist: "The Kane base ball club has many admirers at this place since their defeat of the Smethport 'aggregation'"

Our Veterans Are Aging.

How soon the art of war is forgotten. Last Sunday as the advance guard of the G. A. R. Post marched into the church and stacked arms, it was clearly demonstrated that the musket is not as easily handled now as it was in 1865. But 31 years will bring great changes, and it was clearly visible in the appearance of some of the veterans. While some walked with form erect and a stately bearing others had a halting step, and it was painfully evident that old Father Time had laid his hand upon some of them rather heavily. While a few retained their locks as raven and fail as ever, others locks were growing thin, and showed the advancement of years. Nevertheless we cherish the hope that they may be spared for many years as living monuments of the great sacrifice they made in the trying times of 1861—5. Almost every order in the world, outside of the G. A. R, have a means of recuperating their depleted ranks, but not so with the veterans. As one after another falls out at the Great Commander's roll call it leaves a vacancy that cannot be filled until it is filled under the tree of life, where they will all be gathered to receive their final reward.

Establishing Farms.

A Swedish colony of about twenty families is being established at Grand Valley, Warren county, by L. B. Wood, the well known lumberman. Within a few years past a great many Swedes living in Jamestown, N. Y., bought property and with the advent of depressed times fell out of work and were unable to meet their payments. Mr. Wood, having large tracts of uncleared timber land, has exchanged farm lots for a number of these properties, until Grand Valley has quite a sizable little settlement of these thrifty people. Mr. Wood, it is said, has consented to erect them a church, allowing them ample time to pay for the same. Grand Valley has hitherto been entirely dependent upon lumbering and oil interests and it is believed that Mr. Wood's plan, to establish a farming community adjacent to the town, will be productive of good results.—Titusville Herald.

This is a move in the right direction and the Swedes who join the colony are doing the proper thing. They will secure comfortable homes for their declining years, for generally where there is a Scandinavian colony there thrift and comfort are to be found.

School Children Under the Compulsory Act.

The assessors report the following number of school children between the ages of 8 and 13 years in the different districts:

Corydon township, 1st district, 38 children, 17 boys and 21 girls; Lafayette township, 1st district at Mt. Alton, 48 children, 24 boys and 24 girls, the Ronvelo school, same district, 18 children, 7 boys and 11 girls; Kane, third ward, 76 children, 38 boys and 38 girls; Hamilton township, 1st district, Wetmore school, 16 children, 5 boys and 11 girls; Ludlow school, same district, 75 children, 41 boys and 34 girls.

Farmers and Breeders Meet.

At a meeting of the Agricultural and Breeders society held in Smethport last Saturday, President Young Sec'y Allen and Treasurer Winsor, and many of the members were in attendance. A. B. Armstrong was appointed a committee on institute work. Messrs. Armstrong, Eddy and Sherburne were appointed a committee to meet with representatives from other societies on the second Tuesday in June, to arrange places to hold institutes this season. F. L. Sherburne was elected State representative. Messrs Allen, Smith and Quirk were appointed to fix time and place for the annual meet and to solicit new members, who are to elect new officers. M. N. Allen resigned his office of secretary and James Quirk was appointed, pro tem, until next regular meeting.

Conveniences of the New Telephone.

Harry Wells has his residence on Rose Hill avenue and his popular drug store connected by an excellent telephone system In fact it is perfect, so perfect that if Harry is busy and cannot go to his meals he rings up his wife and says, "have the dinner placed on the table and I will partake of it by wire while you play me one of your sweet pieces on the piano, and then we will call up Brasted and have some cream soda over the phone together." This telephone system is a grand thing.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

Reduced Rates to Chicago via Pennsylvania Railroad.

For the Democratic National Convention, to be held at Chicago, Ill., July 7, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell on July 3, 4, 5, and 6 excursion tickets to Chicago and return at a single fare for the round trip.

These tickets will be good for return passage until July 12, inclusive.

For specific rates, sleeping-car accommodations, and time-tables apply to nearest ticket agents.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the best anodyne expectorant. It soothes the irritated membrane, stops coughing, and induces sleep.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

—Barnum and Bailey's mammoth circus will visit Bradford in the early fall.

—A new walk has been laid along the Colegrove property on Franklyn street.

—Hilda Johnson is suffering with measles at the residence of Charles Anderson.

Go to the store of D. C. Young for Creamery Butter, packages 18c, prints 19c per pound.

—Ichabod Hewitt, Derrick City postoffice, has been granted an original pension, date of May 8.—Derrick.

—Sheridan Jr., and Rex Gorton are constructing a lawn tennis court in front of their father's house on King street.

—A. B. Armstrong with a large force was engaged yesterday in beautifying Rose Hill cemetery for Decoration Day.

—W. H. Prentiss erected a handsome marble monument for Mrs. S. M. Ride at her lot in the Colegrove cemetery on Saturday last.

—Hoard's Dairyman, a weekly journal, published at Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin, is one of the best papers published in the interest of dairymen and should be in every farmer's home.

—There will be a temperance meeting in the Baptist church on Sunday evening under the direction of the Y. W. C. T. U. A good program has been arranged to which all are invited to be present —Considerable inconvenience was experienced by a large number of our citizens Wednesday owing to the water supply being cut off without notice. A little pains taken by the water committee would obviate all this difficulty.

—The attention of the borough council is respectfully called to the imperfect sewerage connection that prevails on Water street above the B. B. & K., depot. Something ought to be done at once or trouble for the borough will arise.

It is a great mistake to suppose that a simple tonic gives strength; it only stimulates the stomach to renewed action. To impart real strength, the blood must be purified and enriched, and this can only be done by such a standard alterative as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

—An interesting game of base ball is promised at Hamlin Park on Decoration Day. The Roulette team will be here with their famous battery, Page and Johnson. These two ball players made the best showing against our boys of any battery they came in contact with last year.

—Last Monday O. P. White, of Hazelhurst, was arrested and brought before Justice Knapp on the oath of B. F. Hazelton, charging him with selling liquor without a license and keeping a gambling house. After a hearing he was committed to jail in default of $500 bail on the first charge and $300 on the second.

—Monday night lightning struck four tanks at McKeans' Mill belonging to McKean Bro's. The tanks contained about 250 barrels of oil. The loss will reach about $1000. The McKean Bro's had another well drilled in which they were intending to shoot Tuesday. But owing to the destruction of the tanks the operation was deferred.

—That the ways of woman are past finding out was never more fully demonstrated than it was here last Wednesday. Mrs Henry Clark, of Bradford, had her husband arrested some ten days ago and lodged in jail on the charge of wife desertion Last Wednesday she was here pleading with the officials for the discharge of her derelict husband.

—Last Sunday afternoon the members of the G. A. R and the ladies of the W. R. C. marched to the M. E. Church, where the Memorial services were held. Rev. J. W. Sanborn assisted by the Rev. T. R. Taylor officiating. Mr. Taylor offered a very earnest prayer and read an appropriate passage from the Holy Writ. Mr. Sanborn preached a very able sermon on the occasion.

—T. J. Gilbert and family bade their many friends adieu last Tuesday and left for their new home at Machias, N. Y., where Mr. Gilbert will assume charge of the Cattaraugus Star, which has heretofore been a Prohibition paper, but which will hereafter be run as a Republican newspaper. The MINER wishes Mr. Gilbert and family prosperity and happiness in their new home.

—The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis by Tours, sang by the St. Luke's choir last Sunday night was the grandest piece of music ever produced within the church. The sweet blending of the organ's tones with the rich voices of the large choir made the event one long to be remembered by the congregation, which sat as if entranced by the divine music that filled the large edifice.

—A MINER representative called on Dr. Pierce, our popular dentist, in his pleasant parlors in the Young building last Wednesday, and found him busily engaged in his office. The doctor has plenty of work to do and when he gets weary of labor, being an enthusiastic bicyclist, he goes out and takes a spin on his fine Rambler, and thus keeps himself in good trim for his dental duties.

Many Villages Laid in Ruins by the Wind.

SCORES OF PEOPLE KILLED.

Wide Path of Destruction and Death Left by the Storm—Details of the Disaster Meagre on Account of Prostrated Telegraph Wires.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., May 26 — The villages of Valeria, Mingo and Santiago, Jasper county, on the Chicago Great Western railway, between this city and Des Moines, were nearly wiped from the face of the earth by a cyclone, and adjacent counties were laid waste with considerable loss of life and great destruction of railway and other property

Reports here say 14 persons were killed at Valeria, 5 at Mingo, 4 in the country a few miles west of Bon Dorant and 3 at Santiago

The names of the killed were

Mrs. Robert Bailey and three children, Lizzie, Julia and Robert, Jr.

Two other members of the same family were dangerously hurt, but may recover

Five other persons in the same neighborhood were badly injured

At least ago the following persons are known to have been killed and a number of others were seriously injured

Mr and Mrs. Balenbaugh and grandchild

A terrible spectacle was presented in one demolished house in Valeria Several members of a family named Fallous—father, mother and five children—were found lying dead among the wreckage in one room, except the mother, who is not expected to live Two children named Aikens were also killed outright and a large number of people in the village and the county severely injured

The following buildings were wrecked in Valeria

Chicago Great Western depot one drug store, three general stores, postoffice, Catholic church, one creamery, two blacksmith shops and 25 dwellings

A witness of the storm says the approaching cloud looked like an inverted beer bottle and dipped down at Valeria with appalling suddenness and frightful effect, wrenching oak trees two feet in diameter or pulling them out by the roots as if they were weeds.

The track and right of way of the Chicago and Western with a number of bridges and trestle work between Ira and Mingo, for a number of miles, were carried away and telegraph lines are down. Details of the destruction are only obtainable by telephonic connection.

The property loss in the track of the cyclone is estimated at over $100,000

Later reports say a man named Charles Cadlin and his four children, Mike, Susie, Lillian and Charles, Jr., were killed His wife and two sons, Willie and Deal, are also badly injured, the former probably fatally.

Two women, each named Mrs. Dickey, one elderly, the other a younger woman; Mrs Osborn and two children.

The storm occurred between 9 and 10 o'clock, accompanied by a deafening roar, a deluge of rain and hail Its track was several miles in length and from a quarter to half mile in width. A great amount of live stock was killed and the crops in the path of the storm utterly destroyed It is not likely the railroad will be repaired so that traffic can be resumed for several days. The district travelled by the storm is very fertile. Timber and dead stock are strewn over the path of the storm in all directions. The death list will probably aggregate 25, as a number of persons are still missing in addition to those reported killed and injured. The Iowa river is still rising

Handling Drainage.

A labor saving implement invented by an Ohio Farmer correspondent, but not patented, may prove of interest to readers who anticipate laying tile next spring. To make it, take two pieces of common fence wire, each 52 inches long. Place them side by side and give them three twists at the middle for the "top of the handle." Then bend around a four inch block and twist all together for two inches, as shown in illustration. Next draw the ends all together and trim them even. Then bend a hook on the end of each as shown, having the hook on the inside of all the four arms, and make large enough to hook over a three-fourths inch piece. Let the hook at the end turn up three-fourths inch. This will make an implement a trifle larger than the one illustrated, but will be all the better for a tall person, as the larger tile will be more easily adjusted. The object in making shorter would be for a short person to "clear the ground."

Corrected Speed of the Oregon.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The small corrections in the speed of the battleship Oregon on her recent trial trip off San Bernardino were in favor of the contractors, as shown by the following telegram received by the navy department from Admiral Beardslee at San Francisco: "Oregon's speed, with all corrections applied, is 16.791 knots." The first report placed the speed at 16.78 knots, so that the corrections give a slight increase.

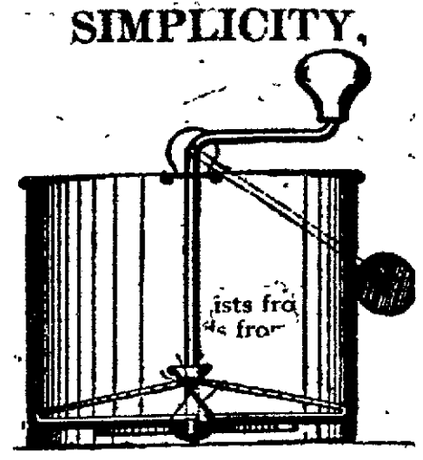
RARE OPPORTUNITY

For Enterprising Capitalists and Speculators to obtain control of a Decided Superior Invention which combines

SIMPLICITY,



CHEAPNESS, EFFICIENCY.

THE HOUSEWIFE'S FRIEND.

This very desirable kitchen utensil has been invented and patented by Mrs. Kate Freeman Taylor, of Smethport, Pa.

The device is admirably arranged for its peculiar work, and will quickly reduce boiled Potatoes, Turnips, Pumpkins, Carrots or other vegetables of like nature, to a fine, smooth pulp entirely devoid of lumps. The body of the device is cylindrical, with a wire mesh bottom in which the vertical crank shaft turns, the upper bearing being a span bar secure across the top. At the lower part of the shaft are rigidly secured a pair of radical wings which are inclined at an angle towards the direction of rotation, and whose lower edges rake closely upon the solve bottom. A pair of stiff wire arms also project at right angles to the blades or wings and serve as stirrers and breakers.

It is peerless for Whipping Cream, Beating Eggs, making Potato Snows, Apple sauce without pairing or coring the apples; Pumpkin without pairing, as it retains all the best flavor which is in the skin. Cranberry sauce, Chili sauce, without chopping or draining, and to scald the ripe tomatoes, turn through and they are ready to boil. Over two thirds of your time saved. Write for descriptive circulars.

Negotiations for the disposal or development of this patent are under the direct supervision of the Patentee.

KATE F. TAYLOR.

The cathedral where the actual ceremony of the coronation was celebrated is that of the assumption.

The cathedral of the Assumption is very small and the room so limited that only a very small number of the diplomatic corps were furnished with cards of admission, while the representation of the press was limited to five correspondents, two native and three foreign.

The cathedral, indeed, looks as if it could not hold more than 200 people, and the clinging tenacity of deep rooted tradition in Russia is illustrated by the simple fact that the modern coronation of czars, with all their attendant pomp and circumstance, are still solemnized within the extremely narrow limits of this ancient shrine instead of in the superb cathedral of the Saviour, which easily holds 15,000 persons, which cost over 20,000,000 rubles to build, and which would form a sublimely grand setting for the imposing ceremonial of the coronation.

AMID SCENES OF SPLENDOR.

Placed the Crowns Upon the Heads of Himself and Bride.

Moscow Today Witnesses a Spectacle Unsurpassed In the History of the World. Nobles, Ambassadors and Titled Guests From Every Land Beneath the Sun Gather to Do Homage to the Great White Czar — Magnificent Procession From the Palace of the Kremlin to the Cathedral of the Assumption—Display of Wealth and Title Probably Never Before Equalled — Thousands Upon Thousands Throng the City From All Parts of the Globe — Ceremony of the Coronation Observed With All the Solemnity Handed Down From the Ancient Muscovites—Czar Places Upon His Own Head the Insignia of Sovereignty and Then Invests the Empress With the Robes and Crown.

MOSCOW, May 26.—Today is perhaps the most important in the life of Nicholas II, for although since the death of his father, Alexander, he has been the nominal czar, it was not until today that he became actually the spiritual as well as temporal ruler of the mighty Russian empire. Today in the presence of perhaps the most remarkable gathering of nobles, ecclesiasts and foreign diplomats the world has ever witnessed, the czar placed upon his own head the crown and invested himself with the sceptor and other insignia of power which consecrate and proclaim him emperor and autocrat of all the Russias. At the same time he placed upon the head of his bride, Princess Alix of Hesse, the crown which proclaims her joint ruler with him over 100,000,000 souls.

Perhaps never before in the history of the world were such scenes of magnificence, such royal pomp and splendor crowded into a single day as were today visible in the ancient Muscovite capital.

No one slept in the city last night, the streets, houses, barracks and palaces were illuminated all night long and the crowds never for a moment deserted the squares and thoroughfares. The day's ceremonies were announced by the national salute of big guns long before daybreak.

The ceremonies in the Cathedral of the Assumption, where the actual coronation took place, began at 8 o'clock this morning and long before that time the church dignitaries and officials of various kinds were in their duly assigned places, while the privileged spectators who held tickets for the various tribunes and stands were in their seats before the break of day.

It was but 7 o'clock this morning when the grand procession of the nobility of Russia, of the high dignitaries of church and state, the foreign ambassadors and royal guests and delegates from the various races and provinces of the empire reached the palace of the Kremlin where the emperor and empress awaited them in the great throne room.

Their majesties were conducted by grand chamberlains to their places near the head of the cortege, beneath a great canopy beautifully wrought of silk and gold and borne by 32 generals of the Russian army. The great procession then, amid the admiring murmurs of the tens of thousands who thronged the scene, wound its way toward the entrance to the cathedral, led by masters of ceremonies, gorgeously clad heralds mounted upon milk white steeds, brilliantly uniformed officers and representatives of every state and province in the empire.

The spectacle as the vast procession moved from the Kremlin was impossible to describe. The picturesqueness of it all; the endless variety of costume, the wealth of jewels, the varied specimens of humanity, the magnificent equipages, state carriages of fabulous value, waving banners, tossing plumes, prancing steeds, marching feet, the barbaric splendor of the East, the opulent magnificence of the great West, the kaleidoscopic succession of faces, garbs and manners from every clime, and above and around all the thousands upon thousands of human beings of every race beneath the sun, who thronged the thoroughfares, crowded the balconies, filled the windows and covered the housetops in countless multitudes; all these go to make up a scene which no pen can adequately describe, but which, once seen, can never be forgotten.

The scene partook of all the countries of the earth. It was a mixture of the Orient and of the West, of Asia and Europe, with Africa likewise lending a bit of its own particular color to the scene. There were caftans of cloth of gold, of silver, of satin, silk, velvet, plush, of every color of the rainbow, coats and dresses thickly incrusted with diamonds, emeralds, rubies and pearls, damaskeened breastplates and bucklers, silken sashes stuck full of handjars, daggers and pistols, towering talpachs of snowy white lamb's wool, turbans of the color and dimensions of gleaming white uniforms, shining surpassed and silver helmets, surmounted by the double headed eagle in gold with outspread wings, the clergy in vestments of barbaric splendor, the masters of the ceremonies and the gentlemen of the chamber in their gold embroidered uniforms and white plumed hats, the scarlet coated Cossacks of the imperial bodyguard, the ladies of the court in their beautiful court dresses, and a thousand other types in varying degrees of splendor indescribable.

Payment of Sugar Bounties.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Mr. Bowler, the comptroller of the treasury, has taken prompt measures to comply with the decision of the supreme court in the sugar bounty cases. In a letter to the auditor for the treasury department he states that the claims of the Realty company of New Orleans and the Oxnard Beet Sugar company, under the act of March 2, 1895, are now approved for payment and recommends that the Oxnard claim be withdrawn from the court of claims. Mr. Bowler recognizes that the decision in these test cases applies to all properly authenticated claims under the act of March 2, 1895, and will proceed at once to pass them for payment. The amount which will be required to pay the cane and beet sugar claims will be about $6,237,000, which, if all are paid before July 1, will increase the deficiency for the fiscal year to about $30,000,000.

Serious Disorders at Crete.

PARIS, May 26.—M. Hanotaux, minister for foreign affairs, has received a telegram from the French consul in Crete, reporting that serious disturbances have taken place at Canea. There has been serious fighting in the streets of that place between Mussulmans and Christians. A French cruiser has been ordered to proceed at once to Canea.

A TRUE STORY.

In a cabin at the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains lived a beautiful girl with her aged father. They were very poor, and as their little "Mountain Home" was soon to be sold under a mortgage, it was with joy that the old father welcomed as a suitor for his daughter's hand an old and wealthy friend of his youth, who, having come to pay him a visit, had fallen in love with the charming girl. She, having lived so long in poverty, was quite carried away by the tales told her by the rich old friend regarding the wealth and splendor of his city home, and he offered her land, gold and diamonds if she would become his bride. She had a dark-eyed mountain lover, who was too poor to offer her anything but roses.

WHICH DID SHE CHOOSE?

The question is answered in the (3) verse song and chorus entitled:

"DIAMONDS OR ROSES,"
Words and Music by C. H. ADDISON.

This is one of the most catchy, brilliant and fascinating songs ever published, and is now being sung with great success in all the large cities. Price 40 cents.

SOME CHANGES

Next week some important changes will be made in the make up of the MINER. It will appear in the old form with the original head on the first page This change is made on account of our press being too small to successfully print an eight page sheet, which, also, unless cut, does not give universal satisfaction to advertisers and patrons in general

We are sure the readers of the MINER will be pleased with the change and in the future our whole effort will be to make the MINER better than ever. You can materially help us in this by giving us the names of friends who may be visitors at your homes or when you go away, drop us a postal card to that effect. The path of the editor is not all roses and every little help is thoroughly appreciated. Whenever you know an item of news that would interest others let us know about it.

As there does not seem to be any show for the Democratic party to elect a president this year, the said party could not do a more graceful act than to nominate Belva Lockwood for president and Mary Ellen Lease for vice president These ladies may not possess the proper views on the Democratic issues of the day, but for the sake of the honor that would be conferred upon them, these Amazons in the 19th century ought to conform to the requirements of the party, well knowing that the unterrified are not very particular on certain occasions as is apparent by their acceptance of Horace Greely in 1872 The names Lockwood and Lease might furnish sufficient inspiration to enliven the presidential race and make it appear that the Republican candidate was not trolling over the course alone

EX UNITED STATES SENATOR WM. A. WALLACE died at 7 30 a. m., May 22, aged 69 years, in New York. Mr. Wallace was born in Huntingdon county, this state, of Irish parentage, Nov. 27, 1827. When quite young his parents moved to Clearfield county where he commenced the study of law and was admitted to the bar before he was of age. Mr. Wallace has been for years a prominent figure in state and national politics Always a Democrat. In 1875 he was elected to the United States Senate, serving one full term. He was a man of marked ability and integrity, and fully merited the confidence of his party.

LAST Sunday Queen Victoria of England and Ireland, and Empress of India, celebrated the 75 anniversary of her birth. She was proclaimed Queen June 21, 1837, and crowned June 28, 1838, having reigned 59 years. In 1876 the title of Empress of India was added to her other royal titles. Her reign is the longest of any living sovereign.

THE "white metal" will have a tendency to bring matters to a white heat at the Democratic National Convention at Chicago.

THE "western reserve" seems to be right in the swim Two Methodist bishops recently elected take justifiable pride in having been born in that renowned section, and last comes Maj. McKinley who will without a doubt be the next president of the United States.

MCKINLEY'S presidental boom is the only one that has life enough to make its movements perceptible, while the other favorite sons' booms do not seem to have as much life as New Orleans molasses in January

THE hum of the bucksaw can plainly be heard in McKinley's back yard in spite of the importunities of those who have serious doubts of his financial policy.

SENATOR M S QUAY last week visited Major McKinley at Canton, Ohio, and laid the Keystone bouquet at the feet of the next president of the United States.

FREE TRADE IN SALT RESULTS

The per capita consumption of salt, for all purposes, in this country is 56 pounds per annum The McKinley duty was $1 60 a ton The Wilson-Gormandizers placed it on the free list If the consumers reap the whole benefit of the $1 60 a ton, it means to them a saving of less than four and a half cents each, even should they reap the benefit on the entire consumption In point of fact, the duties collected in 1891 the highest under the McKinley law, were $3408,790 or less than six tenths of a cent per capita To accomplish this saving of $408 790, the wages distributed in the Wyoming Valley salt field alone fell off $385 000 in 1895 below the amount in 1891, while the railroads running through that field lost $800,000 and the cooperage and cotton bagging industries lost $435 000 Here is a loss in one salt field alone of $1,620 000 as against a possible saving of $408,790 And there are many other salt fields in the country as productive as that in and around Wyoming county N Y, which have suffered as heavily The item of labor in the salt plants alone in the one field has been decreased by an amount substantially equal to the duty collected in 1891, and yet labor in the salt plants suffered but one-fourth of the loss directly occasioned by Free Trade in salt —Economist

RESOLUTION.

Hon Charles W Stone submitted the following in the House of Representatives May 19, 1896

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be requested to communicate to the House at the commencement of the next session such information as he may have or may be able to obtain meantime as to the comparative merits and advantages of pure nickel, nickel alloy, aluminum combined or alloyed with other metals, and of copper bronze as material for our minor coins, and for the purpose of making such information as full and complete as possible the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to have struck such experimental minor coins of the metals above mentioned, pure and in combination with other metals as he may deem neccessary and proper, and is requested to communicate to the House the results and conclusions derived from such experimental coinage

THE following clipped from the Oil City Derrick shows the folly of war, making a cannon so large that it becomes practically useless A good baloon and a dynamite cartridge would be far more destructive and infinitely cheaper 'The most powerful guns now made have a range of from 12 to 13 miles at an elevation of 15 degrees. Krupp's monster 130 ton gun holds the record of sending a 2 600 pound shot a distance of 15 miles The 100-ton Armstrong gun, with 960 pounds of powder can send an 1 800 pound shot 14 miles. These guns are too expensive for ordinary use and as they will not stand firing for more than a hundred times, they are no longer manufactured The 90 ton Armstrong gun, used by the United States, is able to hurl a solid shot a distance of 12 miles and the noise of the discharge cannot be heard at the place where the projectile strikes."

MR. MCKEAN'S gift of $100 000 to the University of Pennsylvania is quickly followed by the gift of a like amount from Mr. Alfred C. Harrison. At this rate it cannot be long before the one million dollars desired will be in the hands of the University authorities. The rapidly growing appreciation of the importance of the University to the city, State and country among the wealthy men of Philadelphia and the people of Pennsylvania must be highly gratifying to the individuals who are chiefly responsible for the wonderful growth of the institution.—Inquirer.

GREATER New York, with its area of 350 square miles, will be the second largest city in the world. It has 1100 churches, 90 post offices, 37,000 business houses, 150,000 dwellings, 1100 miles of street and elevated railways, 1100 hotels, 350 public schools, a debt of $170,000,000, taxable property of $2,583,324 329, and a population of considerably over 3,000,000. In the year 1800 the population of New York was 60 489 and of Brooklyn 2378, a total of 62,867 The size and splendor of the consolidated city a century hence are entirely beyond the range of human conjecture.

THE physicians of Chicago enjoy peculiar privileges as regards transportation For fifty cents he can procure of the city clerk a badge with a red cross which gives him the right of way The physician can then pin on the badge and mount his wheel or carriage and all vehicles are obliged to yield him precedence.—Scientific American

FIVE or six years ago it was [illegible] of the Democratic speakers [illegible] that the Republican party favored trusts and combines. We now have a Democratic tariff and with it more trusts and combines than we have ever before known. There were great lumber trusts which were to be throttled by putting lumber on the free list. The Democrats put lumber on the free list, and the price of that important article of industry and commerce has gone up A big lumber trust has just been formed out in Oregon which has advanced the price of lumber $2 a thousand feet. Why don't our Democratic exchanges awake themselves to the duty of sounding a war cry against the trusts that are fostered by the Tariff? We fear our Democratic contemporaries are losing their nerve.—Burlington, Iowa, Hawk-eye

The Biggest Fool at Large

Is the individual who persistently neglects his health, and the means of preserving and restoring it. Many persons who are not constitutional idiots do this. They are genuine objects of compassion as well as censure. A failure of appetite, loss of sleep and flesh, impaired digestion, an uncertain state of the bowels and symptoms of billiousness are so many warnings of the approach of disease. To disregard them in abject folly, which offended nature in due time punishes severely, if not fatally That genial and thoroughly reliable preventive of bodily mischief in the shape of chronic disease Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, will, if resorted to in time, avert those disorders to the removal of which it is also fully adequate. Among these are chronic indigestion, liver complaint, kidney troubles, constipation, nervousness, rheumatism and malaria.

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—DeWitt's Little Early Risers, for they always cleanse the liver, purify the blood and invigorate the system. A. W. Colegrove, Smethport, and A. E. Stickles, East Smethport.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits, 75 cents. Sold by A. B. Armstrong Druggist Smethport.

Young mothers dread the summer months on account of the great mortality among children caused by bowel troubles. Perfect safety may be assured by those who keep on hand DeWitt's Colic & Cholera cure, and administer it promptly. For cramps, bilious colic, dysentery and diarrhoea, it affords instant relief. A W. Colegrove, Smethport, and A. E Stickles, East Smethport

A. L. Wooster, a prominent citizen of Osseo, Mich., after suffering excruciatingly from piles, for twenty years, was cured in a short time by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, an absolute cure for all skin diseases. More of this preparation is used than all others combined A W Colegrove, Smethport, and A. E Stickles, East Smethport.

Millinery Specials

We have been satisfied, so far, with our millinery season We can't complain, no matter how we might try Have you ever stopped to think why we are so successful in this line? Probably you will realize it when you see our line of over 250 ladie's trimmed hats at $2 00, $2.50, $3 00 and $4 00. All the flowers and trimmings you want, we take off or add more just as your fancy desires. We have just received a new line of white chip, narrow back flats for Misses' which can be had beatifully trimmed, for $3.50, by the way this will be a great "white" season. Better purchase now when prices are down. We are marking flowers down, already. We have a lot of roses that we will dispose of at 9c and 14c each. When you have all the prices in town, come to us and we'll be sure of the sale. Without a doubt we can sell first-class millinery quicker at our prices than others can at theirs. We just want one chance, and we are sure our goods will be yours.

BOY'S CLOTHING SPECIALS

When we say that we have something "special," we mean exactly what we say. It is not every day that we claim to have a bona fide special, but when we do it is one that does not belie the term. Wheu we say our all-wool $2.23 boys' 2 piece suit is a "special," in that it cannot be duplicated elsewhere for less than $3 50, we mean it in good faith. Then there is that suit for $3 69 that we know is being sold all over for $4.75. Our boys' clothes are made by the best workmen, and finish and make are guaranteed. We have a complete line of separate pants from 25c up. Durability is the first aim in the selection of a boy's suit and ours are distinctly marked in this direction. We have a fine dress suit in English Clays and Worsteds that we sell at $4·45. These are regular $6.00 goods. They make nice confirmation suits. Can be had in blue and black.

BRADFORD PRICES!

The quality we buy makes prices low in this store. We can sell many things for less than most dealers pay. Quantity gives you an enormous variety, too. The reputation of this house protects you on quality. You can know that every thing is just what we say it is.

REFRIGERATORS.

Vogt's are honest refrigerafors. That's why we handle them as long. They give better value for the money than any other kind made. Not gaudy in finish or price—just honest.

FREEZERS.

A Peerless Freezer get around the bother of most freezers. The two-quart size costs $1.75. To fill it with ice cream costs 50 cents. There is no other freezer so convenient.

GARDEN TOOLS.

Nobody wants a garden tool that is lacking here. We keep them all, from small tools for flowers to tools for potatoes, and no such tools elsewhere cost so little.

HOSE. . . . SCREENS.

Our hose lasts—we warrant it. Price 10 cents per foot.

Screen doors complete $1.00. Screen windows, 25c and up. We can fit any house.

RUBBER PAINT.

Rubber paint lasts longer than any other paint made—often two and three times as long. It stands weather and always looks glossy. We have tested it for sixteen years.

BABY CABS.

Sweet's cabs in all their varieties, from $7 50 up. More than half the mothers in Bradford have used them during the last ten years. A dozen patented features.

LAWN MOWERS.

The best $4 50 lawn mower ever made. The Pennsylvania's come higher, but those are the best in the world.

HAMMOCKS.

A myriad of hammocks from 75 cents up. Automatic swinging hammocks. More styles than you ever saw.

Smethport, Pa., May 20, 1896.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

—While attending court do not fail to call at this office.

—The electric and rain storm Monday night was fearful.

—The regular term of criminal court commences next Monday.

—H. L. White, of Eldred, has carried off the postmastership plum of that place.

—L. Koenig is doing a fine job of painting on the residence of Wm. Haskill.

—Mrs. W. Gunnison, of Hamlin, has been under the doctor's care for some days.

—The MINER regrets to hear of the continued illness of Francis A. Lyte, of Kane.

—Sheridan Gorton Jr., and Ned Newman caught a fine mess of trout in Colegrove brook Saturday.

—Charles Barr had his left hand injured by being caught between a belt and pulley Monday afternoon at Gifford's mill.

—The Kane Republican wishes to have a cinder path from Kane to Mt Jewett Why not extend it to the county seat?

—To-morrow the B B. & K. R. R. will sell half rate tickets from all stations between here and Bradford good for that day only.

—Miss Verna Hafner gave a party last Tuesday night in honor of Miss Eloise Gilbert. All present passed a most enjoyable evening —Holy Baptism was administered on last Sunday evening to the youngest daughter of Mrs. E J Brasted and the son of Mrs. Bates.

—Miss Bessie Heinemann, of Colegrove, has recently purchased a full-nickeled Rambler bicycle of Dr. Pierce. She is to be congratulated on choosing a good wheel.

—During the storm Monday night the Gilbert brook reservoir at Bradford broke. Fortunately the old reservoir held, so Bradford was not left without a water supply.

—Do not fail to read the local notice in regard to a summer school to be conducted by Mr Eckels. This is an opportunity that should not be missed by those who desire an education.

—There will be no delegate from our Post at the Grand Army encampment at Chambersburg next week. H. M Choate and his alternate, Silas Bush are both detained at home owing to the sessions of court.

—The ladies of the Maccabees served a lunch at the Backus building after the meeting of the Hive last Monday night. Mrs. T. J. Gilbert, one of their members, was about to leave the place.

—One of the cutest little willow work baby carriages ever seen in this section was shipped here to Mrs. Fred H. Leroy last Tuesday. It evidently means twins as it is a double decker and a beauty.

—The Y. W. C. T. U. meets this (Friday) evening at the Epworth chapel at 7 p. m. to prepare boquets for Decoration Day and for a short business meeting. All are requested to bring or send flowers.

—The Bradford Sunday Post says: O. A. Baldwin, who for the past ten years has been employed in the capacity of collector for C. H. DuBois, the piano dealer, is missing. So is between $200 and $300 of Mr. DuBois' money.

—Comrade A. H. Pierce has had a new porch built in front of his hotel and is making other repairs. Next Monday the Pierce House bar will open again for business and Al will be too busy to give us any more weather predictions

—The magnificent Virginia creeper that has so beautifully draped the front of Ed Taylor's house for a number of years was blown down during the heavy wind and rain storm Monday night. In the morning it was difficult to pass through the door.

—William C. Carr, of Bradford, who was indicted by the grand jury at the October term of criminal court and afterward skipped his bail was re-arrested on his return to Bradford last Friday. He was lodged in Castle Walker Saturday morning.

—Next Monday the new County Superintendent will assume charge of the school interests of McKean county. The MINER congratulates the fortunate gentleman, Mr. Myers, and hopes his term of office may be very pleasant and profitable to himself, teachers and scholars.

—Joseph M. Nye, one of Bradford's prominent citizens died at the American House, East Bradford, early last Saturday morning of consumption at the age of 55 years. A wife, son, and daughter are left to mourn his departure. Funeral Monday at 2 p. m. Interment at Oak Hill cemetery.

—S. J. Gifford started for the Adirondacks Monday, where he and his brother, Warley, expect to purchase a half interest in a large tract of pine timberland including a mill, steamboat, and other improvements necessary for carrying on extensive lumber interests. Mr. Gifford went there with a view of closing the deal last Monday. The gentlemen are deserving of congratulation on securing this fine plant. May their fondest hope of success be realized.

—The many patrons of the Sartwell House at Port Allegany will miss the familiar face of Pat Kilday who has resigned his long occupied position.

—What is the trouble with the Bradford Sunday Herald. For the last three weeks the copies sent here by mail have not arrived until Monday noon or evening.

—Last Tuesday little Allen Morrison attracted as much attention on the street as a circus parade with his little pair of blue jean pantaloons. In fact he was the admiration of all who saw him.

—The fearful storms that raged ove the States of Iowa, Illinois and Kansas last Sunday were terrible in their effects in the loss of life and property. Several hundred are reported killed.

—Commissioner S. Jewett returned from Warren last Friday with John Rounds, who had been in the Warren poor house. Round's family live on the West Branch in Bradford township.

—Supervisor Frank Fritz, is doing some excellent work on the road between Ormsby and Aiken. That he is the right man in the right place is evident to all who have occasion to travel that way.

—Monday noon not a man, woman or child was left in Sweden Valley but the editor and "devil" of the Times. A show at Coudersport you know.—Sweden Valley Times. The d—l undoubtedly became very lonesome.—

—The Ridgway Advocate urges every Swede who is entitled to citizenship to attend court and secure a certificate of naturalization. That's right, Brother Baker. They make good citizens and vote the Republican ticket.

—David Hicks, of Gardeau, who was committed to jail by Justice Ward of Port Allegany on Feb. 27th, on the charge of larceny and bailed out March 13th, was surrendered by his boudsman last Friday and re-committed to jail to await trial.

—The Penny Press, a newspaper started last week in Bradford, is under the management of F. McDonald. The editorial work is performed by Mrs. Ada Cable, who has had years of experience in this line and certainly understands what the public needs. The MINER wishes the new venture success.

—There was a report on our streets last Tuesday that several gangs were at work grading the new railroad between here and Hazelhurst. Some were of the opinion that they would connect with the C. & M. C. railroad at Palmerville, while others were fully as confident that the new road would be extended to Smethport. It is to be hoped that the latter is correct.

—The Olean Ledger mentions three toughs from Bradford, George Mahoney, Joe Quinlan and James Brady—all plumbers, who brutally assaulted John Erickson of Olean while he was returning from his work at 6:30 last Saturday night. The three brutes beat the poor man into insensibility with a loaded carriage whip. All three were arrested.

—Next Monday Mr. Eckels leaves the office of superintendent of McKean county schools, and becomes a common citizen again. After nine years of consecutive and successful work in that office, he can take a justifiable pride in the knowledge that he has faithfully, without fear or favor, discharged his duty to both teachers and scholars as he honestly saw it.

—B. F. Pratt met with quite a painful accident one day last week. He was riding Judge Morrison's horse up Main street, having nothing but a halter to guide him with. When in front of the court house the horse suddenly bucked throwing Mr. Pratt over his head. His back and right leg were quite severly injured by the fall and caused him to wear a cane for several days.

—The Clarion State Normal School has 350 students and is constantly on the increase. McKean county students in attendance number 33—28 ladies and 5 gentlemen. The present Senior class numbers 68. On Monday, May, 18, ten seniors delivered their final orations. Among the number was Miss Della Hafner, of this borough. The MINER received a communication last Friday night, too late for last week's issue, so gives a synopysis this week.

—Like a brother editor, we have adopted the following rules: "Ten cents a line straight, will be charged for obituary notices to all business men who do not advertise while living. Delinquent subscribers will be charged fifteen cents a line for an obituary notice. Advertisers and cash subscribers will receive as good a 'send-off' as we are capable of writing, without any charge whatever. Better send in an ad. and pay up your subscription as long as the hog cholera is in the land."

—Austin, as a community, was never saddened to a deeper degree than on Monday afternoon, the 18th inst, when little Willie Henry, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Henry, received a shot in the head from a flobert rifle, in the hands of Murry Teter, which at 9:15 the same evening caused his sad and untimely death.—Austin Autograph Here is another illustration of the deadly flobert rifle. May this prove a warning to our many boys who are fond of using this worthless gun.

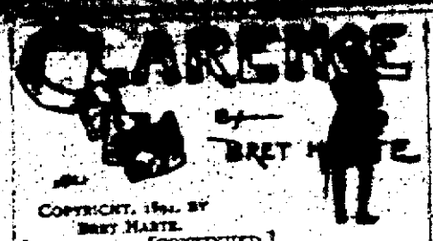
CLARENCE

by BRET HARTE.



COPYRIGHT, 1896, BY BRET HARTE.

—yes. Before a gun was fired it appeared that the enemy was in complete possession of all our plans, and knew every detail of our formed movements. All had to be changed."

The younger man now instantly understood the incomprehensible order of the day before. The general of division continued, with his first touch of official formality: "You understand, therefore, Gen. Brant, that in the face of this extraordinary treachery the utmost vigilance is required, and a complete surveillance of your camp followers and civilians to detect the actual spy within our lines or the traitor we are harboring who has become possessed of this information. You will overhaul your brigade, and weed out all suspects, and in the position which you are to take to-morrow and the plantation you will occupy, you will see that your private quarters, as well as your lines, are cleared of all but those you care much for." He reined in his horse, again extended his hand, saluted and rejoined his staff.

Brig. Gen. Clarence Brant remained for a moment with his head bent in admiring contemplation of the coolness of his veteran chief, under this exciting disclosure, and the strategy with which he had frustrated the traitors' success. Then his eye caught the sealed packet in his belt. He mechanically drew it out and broke the seal. The envelope was filled with paper and memorandums. As he glanced at them his face darkened and his brow knit. He glanced quickly around him. The staff had trotted away: the captain and his detail were continuing their work at a little distance. He took a long breath, he was holding in his hand a tracing of their position, even of the position he was to occupy to-morrow, and a detailed account of the movements, plans and force of the whole division, as had been arranged in council of war the day before the battle, but there was no indication of the writer or his intentions.

He thrust the paper hurriedly back into the envelope, and placed it, this time, in his breast. He galloped towards the captain:

"Let me see the officer from whom you took that packet?"

The captain led him to where the body lay, with others, extended more decently on the grass awaiting removal. Gen. Brant with difficulty repressed an ejaculation.

"Why, it's one of our own men!" he said quickly.

"Yes, general. They say it's Lieut. Wainwright, a regular of the division supply department."

"Then what was he doing here?" asked Gen. Brant, sternly.

"I can't make out, sir, unless he went into the last advance as a volunteer. Wanted to see the fight, I reckon. He was a dashing fellow, a West Pointer—and a southerner, too—a Virginian."

"A Virginian!" echoed Brant, quickly.

"Yes, sir."

"Search him again," said Brant quietly. He had recovered his usual coolness, and as the captain again examined the body, he took out his tablets and wrote a few lines. It was an order to search the quarters of Lieut. Wainwright, and bring all papers, letters and documents to him. He then beckoned one of the detail toward him. "Take that to the provost marshal at once. Well, captain," he added calmly, as the officer again approached him, "what do you find?"

"Only this, sir," returned the captain, with a half smile, producing a small photograph. "I suppose it was overlooked, too." He handed it to Brant.

He handed it to Brant.

There was a sudden fixing of his commanding officer's eyes, but his face did not otherwise change.

"The usual find, general. But this time rather a handsome woman."

"Very," said Clarence Brant, quietly. It was the portrait of his own wife!

CHAPTER II.

So complete was his control of voice and manner that as he galloped back to his quarters no one would have dreamed that Gen. Brant had just looked upon the likeness of the wife from whom he had parted in anger four years ago. Still less would they have suspected the singular fear that came upon him that in some vague way she was connected with the treachery he had just discovered. He had heard from her only once, and then through her late husband's lawyer in regard to her California property, and believed that she had gone to her relations in Alabama, where she had identified herself with the southern cause even to the sacrifice of her private fortune. He had heard her name mentioned in the southern press as a fascinating society leader, and even coadjutrix of southern politicians—but he had no reason to believe that she had taken so active or so desperate a part in the struggle. He tried to think that his uneasiness sprung from his recollection of the previous treachery of Capt. Pinckney, and the part she had played in the California conspiracy—although he had long since acquitted her of the betrayal of another trust. But there was a fateful similarity in the two cases. There was no doubt that this Lieut. Wainwright was a traitor in the camp—that he had succumbed to the miserable sophistry of his class in regard to his superior allegiance to his native state. But was there the inducement of another emotion—or was the photograph only the souvenir of a fascinating priestess of rebellion whom the dead man had met? There was perhaps less of feeling than scorn in the first suggestion, but he was, nevertheless, relieved when the provost marshal found no incriminating papers in Wainwright's effects. Nor did he reveal to the division general the finding of the photograph. It was sufficient to disclose the work of the traitor without adding what might be a clew to his wife's participation in it, near or remote. There was risk enough in the former course—which his duty made imperative. He hardly dared to think of the past day's slaughter which—there was no doubt now—had been due to the previous work of the spy, and how his brigade had been selected—by the irony of fate—to suffer for and yet retrieve it. If she had a hand in that wicked plot, ought he to spare her? Or were his destiny and hers to be thus monstrously linked together?

Luckily, however, the explanation of the chief offender and the timely discovery of his papers enabled the division commander to keep the affair discreetly silent, and to enjoy equal secrecy on the part of Brant. The latter, however, did not relax his vigilance, and after the advance the next day he made a minute inspection of the ground he was to occupy, its approaches and connections with the outlying country and the rebel lines, increased the stringency of picket and sentry regulations, and exercised a rigid surveillance of noncombatants and civilians within the lines—even to the lowest canteener or camp follower. Then he turned his attention to the house he was to occupy as his headquarters.

It was a fine specimen of the old colonial planter's house, with its broad verandas, its great detached offices and negro quarters, and had, thus far, escaped the ravages and billetting of the war. It had been occupied by its owner up to a few days before the engagement, and so great had been the confidence of the enemy in their success that it had been used as the confederate headquarters on the morning of the decisive battle. Jasmine and rose, untained by the sulphur of gunpowder, twined around its ruined columns and half hid the recessed windows; the careless flower garden was still in its unkept and unplucked exuberance, the courtyard before the stables alone showed marks of the late military occupancy and was pulverized by the uneasy horseshoofs of the waiting staff. But the mingled impress of barbaric prodigality with patriarchal simplicity was still there in the domestic arrangements of a race who lived on equal terms with strangers and their own servants.

The negro servants still remained with a certain cat-like fidelity to the place, and adapted themselves to the northern invaders with a child-like enjoyment of the novelty of the change. Brant, nevertheless, looked them over with an experienced eye, and satisfied himself of their trustworthiness; there were the usual number of "boys," gray-haired and grizzled in body service, and the "mammies" and "aunties" of the kitchen. There were two or three rooms in the wing which still contained private articles, pictures and souvenirs of the family, and a "young lady's" boudoir which Brant with characteristic delicacy kept carefully isolated and intact from the military household, and accessible only to the family servants. The room he had selected for himself was nearest it—a small, plainly furnished apartment with an almost conventual simplicity in its cold, white walls and draperies and the narrow, nun-like bed. It struck him that it might have belonged to some elder daughter or maiden aunt who had acted as housekeeper, as it commanded the wing and the servants' offices with easy access to the central hall.

There followed a week of inactivity, in which Brant felt a singular resemblance in this southern mansion to the old casa at Robles. The afternoon shadows of the deep verandas recalled the old monastic gloom of the Spanish house, which even the presence of a lounging officer or waiting orderly could not entirely dissipate, and the scent of the rose and jasmine from his windows overcame him with sad memories. He began to chafe under this inaction, and long again for the excitement of the march and bivouac — in which for the past four years he had buried his past.

He was sitting one afternoon alone before his reports and dispatches when this influence seemed so strong that he half impulsively laid them aside to indulge in a long reverie. He was recalling his last day at Robles, the early morning duel with Pinckney, the return to San Francisco, and the sudden resolution which sent him that day across the continent to offer his services to the government. He remembered his delay in the western town where a volunteer regiment was being recruited, his entrance into it as a private, his rapid selection, through the force of his sheer devotion and intelligent concentration, to the captaincy of his company, his swift promotion on hard-fought fields to the head of the regiment, and the singular success that had followed his resistless energy which left him no time to think of anything but his duty. The sudden intrusion of his wife upon his career—even in this accidental and perhaps innocent way, had seriously unsettled him.

The shadows were growing heavier and deeper, it lacked [illegible] minute of the sunset hour [illegible] recalled to himself by [illegible] sinister connection [illegible] humanity—of being [illegible] He turned quickly [illegible] him dimly visible [illegible] into the room. The tall figure of a woman was coming down the passage. She was erect and graceful, but as she turned toward the door leading to the offices, he distinctly saw the gracefully turbaned head and black silhouette of a negress. Nevertheless he halted a moment at the door of the next room.

"See who that woman is who just passed, Mr. Martin. She doesn't seem to belong to the house."

The young officer rose, put on his cap and departed. In a few moments he returned.

"Was she tall, sir—of a good figure and very straight?"

"Yes."

"She is a servant of our neighbors, the Manlys, who occasionally visits the servants here. A mulatto, I think."

Brant reflected. Many of the mulattos and negresses were of good figure, and the habit of carrying burdens on their heads gave them a singularly erect carriage.

The lieutenant looked at his chief.

"Have you any orders to give concerning her, general?"

"No," said Brant, after a moment's pause, and turned away.

The officer smiled. It seemed a good story to tell at mess of this human weakness of his handsome, reserved and ascetic-looking leader.

A few moments afterward Brant was interrupted over his reports by the almost abrupt entrance of the officer of the day. His face was flushed, and it was evident that only the presence of his superior restrained his excitement. He held a paper in his hand.

"A lady presents this order and pass from Washington, countersigned by the division general."

"A lady?"

"Yes, sir—she is dressed as such. But she has not only declined the most ordinary civilities and courtesies we have offered her, but has insulted Mr. Martin and myself grossly, and demands to be shown to you alone."

Brant took the paper. It was a special order from the president, passing Miss Matilda Faulkner through the federal lines, to visit her uncle's home, known as "Grey Oaks," now held and occupied as the headquarters of Brant's brigade, in order to arrange for the preservation and disposal of certain family effects and private property that still remained there, or to take or carry away such property, and invoking all necessary aid and assistance from the United States forces in such occupancy. It was countersigned by the division commander. It was perfectly regular and of undoubted authenticity. He had heard of passes of this kind—the terror of the army—issued in Washington under some strange controlling influence and against military protest, but he did not let his subordinate see the uneasiness with which it filled him.

"Show her in," he said, quietly.

But she had already entered, brushing scornfully past the officer, and drawing her skirt aside as if contaminated. A very pretty southern girl, scornful and red-lipped, clad in gray riding habit, and still carrying her riding whip clenched ominously in her slim, gauntletted hand.

"You have my permit in your hand," she said, brusquely, hardly raising her eyes to Brant—"I suppose it's all straight enough, and even if it isn't, I don't reckon to be kept waiting with those hirelings."

"Your 'permit' is 'straight enough,' Miss Faulkner," said Brant, slowly reading her name from the document before him, "but as it does not seem to include permission to insult my officers you will perhaps first allow them to retire." He made a sign to the officer, who passed out of the door. As it closed he went on in a gentle, but coldly unimpassioned voice. "I perceive you are a southern lady, and, therefore, I need not remind you that it is not considered good form to treat even the slaves of those one does not like uncivilly, and I must therefore expect that you will keep your active animosity for myself."

The young girl lifted her eyes. She had evidently not expected to meet a man so young, so handsome, so refined, and so coldly invincible in manner. Still less was she prepared for that kind of antagonism. In keeping up her preconcerted attitude toward the "northern hireling" she had been met with official brusqueness, contemptuous silence or aggrieved indignation—but nothing as exasperating as this. She even fancied that this elegant but sardonic-looking soldier was inwardly mocking her. She bit her red lip, but with a scornful gesture of her riding whip said:

"I reckon that your knowledge of southern ladies is, for certain reasons, not very extensive."

"Pardon me. I have had the honor of marrying one."

Apparently more exasperated than before she turned upon him abruptly. "You say my pass is all right. Then I presume I may attend to the business that brought me here."

"Certainly, but you will forgive me if I imagined that an expression of contempt for your host was a part of it." He rang a bell on the table. It was responded to by an orderly. "Send all the household servants here."

The room was presently filled with the dusky faces of the negro retainers. Here and there was the gleaming of white teeth, but a majority of the assembly wore the true negro acceptance of the importance of "an occasion." One or two even affected an official and soldierly bearing. And as he fully expected there were several glances of significant recognition of the stranger.

"You will give," said Brant, sternly, "every aid and attention to the wants of this young lady, who is here to represent the interests of your old master. As she will be entirely dependent upon [illegible] things connected with [illegible] here, see to it that she does not [illegible] to me of any insolence [illegible] to be obliged to ask for other assistance."

Miss Faulkner, albeit a trifle paler in the cheeks, but as scornful as ever, was about to follow the servant from the room, Brant stopped her with a coldly courteous gesture:

"You will understand, therefore, Miss Faulkner, that you have your wish, and that you will not be exposed to any contact with the members of my military family, nor they with you."

"Am I then to be a prisoner in this house—and under a free pass of—your—president!" she said, indignantly.

"By no means. You are free to come and go and see whom you please. I have no power to control your actions. But I have power to control theirs."

GEO. RUDOLPH, Clermont,

Harper's Magazine IN 1896

Brisels, a new novel by WILLIAM BLACK, written with all the author's well known charm of manner, will begin in the December Number, 1895, and continue until May. A new novel by GEORGE DU MAURIER, entitled The Martian, will also begin during the year. It is not too much to say that no novel has ever been awaited with such great expectation as the successor to Trilby. The Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc will continue and will relate the story of the failure and martyrdom of the Maid of Orleans. Other important fiction of the year will be a novelette by MARK TWAIN, under the title, Tom Sawyer, Detective; a humorous three-part tale called Two Mormons from Middlesex, by LANGDON ELWYN MITCHELL; and short stories by OCTAVE THANET, RICHARD HARDING DAVIS, MARY E. WILKINS, JULIAN RALPH, BRANDER MATTHEWS, OWEN WISTER, and other well-known writers.

Prof. WOODROW WILSON will contribute six papers on George Washington and his times, with illustrations by HOWARD PYLE. POULTNEY BIGELOW's history of The German Struggle for Liberty, illustrated by R. CATON WOODVILLE, will be continued through the winter. Two papers on St. Clair's defeat and Mad Anthony Wayne's victory, by THEODORE ROOSEVELT, with graphic illustrations will be printed during the year.

A noteworthy feature of the Magazine during 1896 will be a series of articles by CASPER W. WHITNEY, describing his trip of 2500 miles on snowshoes and with dog-sledge traine into the unexplored Barren Grounds of British North America in pursuit of wood-bison and musk-oxen. Mr. WHITNEY's series will have the added interest of being illustrated from photographs taken by himself.

The Volumes of the Magazine begin with the Numbers for June and December of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

CORONATION CEREMONY.

The Czar Places on His Own Head the Imperial Insignia.

Arriving at the cathedral the clergy emerged to meet the royal couple, who knelt and kissed the cross held by the metropolitan of Moscow They then entered the cathedral and ascended the dais and took their seats upon the thrones. The emperor's throne is of carved ivory, while that of the empress is of silver and jewelled. Over the dais is hung a canopy of purple velvet, suspended from the arched roof, embroidered with gold and lined with silver brocade, upon which are worked, in the most ingenious manner, the arms of Russia and of all her dependencies.

In front of the thrones were two tables covered with cloth of gold upon which were placed the imperial regalia These, the imperial symbols of the autocratic sovereignty of the Russian czars, comprise the crown, the scepter and the orb of the empire.

The crown is modeled after the pattern of that worn by the late Byzantine Cæsars, whose successors the czars claim to be. It is estimated to be worth more than $13,000,000.

With the exception of the famous ruby which forms the pedestal for the cross, the crown consists entirely of diamonds and 54 magnificent pearls. The scepter is even more valuable as a treasury of jewels than the crown itself. It is adorned with the renowned diamond known as the Orloff, or the Orloff, which is said to have served as one of the eyes of the golden lion of the throne of the great mogul at Delhi, the Kohinoor having served as the other eye.

The imperial orb is of pure gold, with a girdle of three rows of brilliant and splendid almond shaped diamonds in the center.

None but the royal visitors from abroad were accommodated with seats, the Russian princes and dignitaries standing throughout the entire services. The principal officials of the empire, bearing the standards, the swords of state and the seals of the empire, took up their position upon the steps of the dais, while the metropolitans, archbishops and clergy ranged themselves in two ranks from the steps of the throne to the imperial gates of the holy of holies As soon as the psalm had been ended and the bells stopped ringing the metropolitan of Novgorod approached the steps of the dais and asked the emperor in a loud and distinct voice, "Art thou a true believer?"

The emperor, falling on his knees—the only kneeling figure in the crowded fane—recited in a loud voice the Lord's Prayer and the Apostles' Creed of the Greek church, to which the metropolitan responded with the invocation: "May the grace of the Holy Ghost remain with thee! Amen! Amen! Amen!

The prelate then repeated three times the traditional inquiry as to whether there "is any one present who knows any just cause or impediment for which Nicholas the son of Alexander, should not be crowned, by the grace of God, emperor and autocrat of all the Russias," winding up the list of his titles by a demand that if there is any one who knows of such impediment he should "come forward now in the name of the Holy Trinity and show what the impediment is, or remain dumb forever."

The metropolitans of Moscow, Kiev and Novgorod then placed the imperial mantle upon his shoulders while the metropolitan of Moscow exclaimed "Cover and protect thy people, as this robe covers and protects thee."

The emperor then commanded that the crown be brought to him This was done by the metropolitan of Novgorod The emperor, standing, took the crown and placed it upon his head. The archbishop then read from a book, as follows

"Most honorable, most autocratic and mighty lord, emperor of all the Russias, this visible and actual adornment on thine head is the manifest symbol by which Christ, the invisible King of Glory, crowns thee, the Russian people confirming unto thee, with his blessing, sovereignty and supreme power"

The archbishop then, at the emperor's command, handed him the scepter and the orb and addressed him as follows

"Oh, thou crowned, gifted and adorned by God, most honorable, most autocratic emperor of all the Russias, take this scepter and this orb as the visible symbols of autocratic power, given unto thee by the Most High, over his people, for their government and for the ordering of every blessing that they may desire"

The emperor then took his seat on the throne, and, laying the regalia on the cushions called up the empress, who knelt before him, and, taking from his head the crown, he held it for a moment over head, and then replacing it upon his own head, he crowned her with the smaller crown, which was fixed in place with four diamond pins by ladies in waiting The emperor then invested his consort with the purple ermine lined mantle and the collar of the Order of St. Andrew the Apostle.

This done the empress returned to her throne and the emperor resumed his orb and scepter

At this juncture the archdeacon read aloud the full imperial titles, coupled with a prayer for health and long life to the orthodox, most pious and Christ loving, most autocratic, mighty sovereign, crowned by God exalted autocrat of all the Russias, Moscow, Kiev, Vladimir and Novgorod, czar of Kazan, czar of Astrakhan, czar of Poland, czar of Siberia, czar Kherson, czar of Taurina, czar of Georgia, etc., and finished with an invocation to the Almighty to grant to the new czar "a peaceful and prosperous life, health and salvation in all things, and may you be happy in success and vanquish and overcome your enemies, and may he preserve you to your faithful people for many years"

The choir repeated three times the words "many years," all the bells were set ringing and the cannon fired 101 rounds.

All persons present in the cathedral, both lay and clergy, then bowed three times by way of congratulation to their imperial majesties

When the noise of the bells and cannon had ceased, the emperor, laying down his scepter and orb, recited aloud a short supplication for divine aid in administering the affairs of the empire.

Then followed the long and somewhat tedious religious ceremonies in which the Russians delight, which will last far into the night.

Michigan Visited by Cyclone.

PONTIAC, May 28.—The country in the vicinity of this city was given its first taste of a cyclone last evening, and the little village of Thomas has been wiped from the face of the earth.

Metamora and Oakwood were also touched up and their inhabitants badly frightened, some being injured, and a track of devastation left to within three fourths of a mile of Ortonville.

It seems certain that from 14 to 18 lives have been lost.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by A. B. Armstrong, Druggist, Smethport, Pa.

Many cases of so called heart disease, are only cases of acid fermentation in the stomach. The irritation from the acid hinders the action of the heart, through the pneumogastric nerve, and very often the excessive restraining power of this peculiarly acting nerve, becomes a very serious matter; the heart makes the greatest effort to do its work, but there is a shortness of breath which cannot be made up for, and the feeling throughout the chest is very distressing. Sometimes this acid arises and causes an acrid smarting in the throat; at other times the burning is up and down the chest.

Another stomach trouble is that form of dyspepsia which gives pain after eating. Persons with this disease seem to have but a scant measure of nerve strength; when food is being digested, the stomach needs the concentration of all of the nerve and brain force, and if reading or close thought is attempted soon after eating, the stomach commences that intolerable aching which dyspeptics dread so much, when, the only immediate relief appears to be to stop the mental activity and get up and move around In such cases there is evidently for the time being, too little nerve power to divide between the stomach and the brain, each one alone needs it all to enable it to perform its labor.

There are two properties possessed by Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic, which constitute it a cure for all of the above derangements. One, is its power of purifying and sweetening the stomach and stopping the formation of gas and acid, the other is the giving of increased nerve action and strength Soon, with better digestion and better nutrition, there is a general renewal of life and health The mind of a business man, under its use, soon become clearer and more active, thoughts come easier and are more clearly expressed, the memory is stronger, business plans and ventures are arranged in a better manner and are more patiently and successfully carried out, and details are attended to better because of the increased strength of both mind and muscle.

Women having the care of a household on their minds, find Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic to be a great blessing, it gives better digestion, better nutrition, more strength, cures that feeling of weariness in the morning, that anxiety of mind, that fear that something is going wrong or that something bad is going to happen; cures dizziness, shortness of breath, pressure through the chest, belching of wind, rumbling in the bowels, heartburn, and all forms of dyspepsia that come from weakness.

Mrs. Ellen Pierce, of Rome, Potter Co Pa, write "I can truthfully say that I owe my life to your stomach and nerve tonic. I was troubled with my stomach for over a year and tried everything I could hear of, but did not get any benefit. I was nearly in despair, for although I had only four in my family, I could not begin to do the work for them; an anxious friend wrote me to try Dr Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic, and I did. I did not expect to ever get any better, but was greatly relieved on taking the first dose and now after taking only one bottle of your remedy I can do my work and my stomach does not hurt me only when I do very heavy work. I shall continue its use until I am entirely cured, for I am perfectly satisfied that it will cure all such stomach trouble. I thank you dear Doctor, a thousand times over, for putting before the public such a wonderful remedy for human suffering"

Mrs. Albert Harman, of 2305 Fifth Ave., Altoona, Pa., writes, "Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic has done me a power of good; that burning after meals has left me; I have always been so nervous that I would take nervous spells so bad sometimes that I would have to send for the doctor, but have not had one since I commenced using your stomach and nerve tonic."

H. C. Beatty, Barleyville, Pa, says: "For years I had a severe pain in my stomach after meals; one bottle of Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic cured me; I think, permanently."

J. C. Fulton, of Burgettstown, Pa., writes, "I have been afflicted with the rheumatism and was laid up in bed a good part of the time; my stomach was in a bad condition and would not retain food. I began to use Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic it not only helped my stomach but relieved me of the rheumatism and also increased my weight wonderfully."

A Wonderful Map.

On April 20 Senator Cannon introduced a joint resolution which if it is enacted into law would give the city of Washington a remarkable attraction Mr. Cannon proposes to have constructed an enormous map of the United States showing every hill, mountain, valley, river, lake, village, city and railroad. All this will be in miniature, but on such a scale that the map about twenty feet square, one-third of a mile in breadth. The map is to be constructed on such a scale that one square foot would represent one square mile of the actual area. The proposition is a serious one, although it is not likely to received as such. The value of such a map would be very great—Scientific American
